Distinctive by Design

Royal Crown Derby have been making fine bone china since 1750, the basic formula of bone ash, china stone and china clay remain a recipe for high quality bone china today with one major exception – Royal Crown Derby use 50% bone ash which achieves a result that is unique in its whiteness, translucency and strength. The intrinsic strength of bone china is much higher than that of both hard paste porcelain and earthenware.

To enhance its aesthetic appeal, bone china is often produced to a very thin cross section further emphasising the high degree of translucency.

The high intrinsic strength of the body means that it is possible to achieve delicate profiles without sacrificing resistance to breakage, unlike other translucent bodies.

DISCERNING DESIGN LASTS FOREVER

The unique decorations applied to Royal Crown Derby products are lavish and intricate and often incorporate large amounts of gold or platinum as well as rich based colours. To ensure your purchase gives a trouble free service we recommend you follow our simple guidelines:

Tableware of premium quality should not be used for cooking purposes.

Please do not use a metallic implement to remove left over food from plates.

Always collect cutlery and tableware separately after dining, never stack used plates with cutlery still in place.

Exercise care when loading the dishwasher in order to avoid impact damage

The tableware should be correctly stacked inside the dishwasher, taking care to prevent direct contact with other items.

Never mix tableware with stainless steel items in the dishwasher

The dishwasher should be a reputable brand made by a recognised manufacturer.

The guidelines issued by the manufacturer should always be followed.

Ensure that the dishwasher is serviced regularly, according to the manufacturers recommendations.

Only use detergents that are recommended by the supplier of the dishwasher

Always allow tableware to cool to room temperature prior to handling after dish-washing

Never use scouring pads, or other similarly abrasive products to clean the tableware.

Stubborn stains should be soaked in either water or a de-staining solution prior to washing

Only single sizes and shapes of plate should be stacked together, never mix together plates of different diameters or profiles

Never slide plates against one another when stacking, always place plates into stacks.

Never place plates in stacks of more than twelve. Ideally each plate should be protected by an insert.

Elegant simplicity are the words to surround the Whitehall range of beautifully translucent fine bone china. A comprehensive range of shapes allow each service to be prepared with finesse and refinement whilst being versatile enough to work from breakfast, lunch, afternoon tea and through to dinner.

Refined style is displayed in a classic gold border which has been inspired from the Royal Crown Derby archive creating a stylish design suitable for fine dining, afternoon tea and a leisurely lunch. The design is replicated on the full range of Whitehall items giving options to blend displays of gold and pure white.

A modern take on a classic regency stripe – this range offers a delicate interpretation of gold and platinum bands to create a stylish statement fitting of any dining occasion. Each item is exquisitely produced on the fine Whitehall shape.

Taking inspiration from the heritage of Royal Crown Derby archive this detailed colonnade border pattern seeks its inspiration from an original prestige vase. The subtlety of the Imari colour palette contrasting with the purity of the fine bone china makes this range a discerning choice.

Intricate, rich and beautifully sophisticated this classic border pattern seeks its inspiration from the equally intricate rich but ornate Imari pattern. Classic rich reds and bright gold making a statement in sophisticated dining circles for all to enjoy.

With the Imari colour palette close at heart, design inspiration was taken from 18th century swags to produce a delicate classical fine border pattern suitable for all dining occasions. Afternoon tea, lunch and dinner will be occasions to enjoy.

Looking closely into the archives from the Royal Crown Derby museum this range is inspired by the art deco era of its time and replicated today as a beautiful intricate border pattern. An elegant stylish addition to any fine dining experience.
